Nature-relationships: from Anthropocene to

The Anthropocene

- The way modern life is organized has negatively affected the life-supporting dynamics of the biosphere, giving way to a new geological time: The Anthropocene. It is the time which took place after the last ice age around 11.700 years ago.
- The Anthropocene is characterized by the disruption of important natural cycles and ecological interactions as a result of accelerated human-induced climate change. The ongoing massive extinction of species and degradation of rich biodiverse habitats are driving us to a global socio-ecological collapse.

“A call to rethink human-nature relationship in the Anthropocene”

By Juan Pablo Casadiego 2022

Nature-relationships: from Anthropocene to Post-human

Post-human nature-relationship

- Respect on all species and environments
 - Knowledge
 - Experiences
 - Care, Love
- Many kinds of nature-relationships
 - F.ex. disabled people's nature-relationships
- Global north, global south

Values and futures education: LESS IS MORE!

Values and futures education: the need to understand the nature-relationship as a key thing

A necessary change: Seeing in a new way, behaving in the new way
